OVERVIEW

Established in 1985, the NAU Center for American Indian Economic Development (CAIED) provides training, technical assistance and consulting services, business outreach, grant evaluations, host tribal forums/summits/conferences, and financial literacy education. NAU CAIED serves the twenty-two tribes of Arizona from working with tribal leaders to tribal entrepreneurs to working with tribal youth.

CAIED has a commitment to helping create initiatives and entrepreneurial endeavors among tribal communities. Thus, the Business Plan Competition was created. The Business Plan Competition seeks to train and support the next generation of Native entrepreneurs and business owners. JUDGING:

The competition takes place in two parts. A panel of judges evaluates the written plans prior to the oral competition. Each entry is evaluated in whole by at least two judges. Detailed feedback will be provided on all judged plans.

The final phase consists of a new panel of judges who will evaluate the finalist teams based upon their revised written business plan submission and their oral presentation. This panel selects the first, second, and third place teams.

The judging is based both subjectively and objectively on the evaluation guidelines and the impressions formed the business experiences of the judges. The judges score contestants on scales of 1-10 or 1-5, with 10 or 5 being the highest, 1 being the lowest, in several categories. Judges do not discuss their opinions of contestants until after all scores have been submitted. In case of a tie, the judges will reconvene and discuss the tied teams in order to determine a winner.

All judges ultimately consider the entire business concept of each business plan submitted, looking at overall feasibility, combined with significant capital gains potential, attractive investment possibilities and actual implementation. The most compelling business plan is one that effectively integrates all components of the plan, rather than simply forming a strong sum of parts.

FAQ's:

- Fill out the "Application of Intent" (see next page) and submit by the due date to be entered into the competition.
- Need to submit an "Application of Intent" form for each team member.
- You do not need to have your business idea set to fill out the "Application of Intent." We can help develop your idea if you don't have it already.
- You do not need to know how to write a business plan.
- Yes, you will need a sponsor-parent company as we cannot award seed funding to an individual. What some have done is get a parent company or school club to receive the seed funding check from CAIED, then the parent company or school writes a check directly to the team.
- HOLD ON TO YOUR GUIDELINES—these guidelines will be need to inform you on how to submit your final draft, as well as, highlight what the judges will be critiquing on.
